Father and Daughter working together in EUFOR

Father and daughter work together on a mission abroad with the EUFOR mission in Bosnia and Herzegovina. Dad, Rudolf (54) is a staff officer and helicopter pilot in the Austrian Army, while daughter Bernadette (20) finished the EF-year in 2010, at the Army hospital in Vienna with her qualification completed.

Father Rudolf works in the Ministry of Defence and Sports in Vienna in the department as a specialist service "Militaerluftfahrt" Head of Flight Safety, and gained experience abroad in 1990 (2 weeks in England and 1 week in France, as a pilot). The planning of this international mission in BiH was fixed a couple of months ago.

Bernadette would like to study medicine and has completed training as an army paramedic as well as the drivers license in 2011.

All the more surprising is the moment in which the call came: Sir, Hello Dad, I start preparation for deployment to EUFOR. What a joy when Dad heard about the plans of his daughter because it was not planned. Father and daughter together for three months working abroad - a first for the Austrian armed forces.

We see each other almost every day at breakfast, says Bernadette, then go our separate ways. I am in the Medical Center for ambulance support together with other "medics" in charge. If the soldiers are doing field training, one of the doctors and I accompany them.

The main task for the five Austrian helicopters in Bosnia and Herzegovina is to ensure emergency supplies from the air. I am proud of the achievements of our crews during the day and at night, declared the "Air Chief". Eight lifesaving heli missions and six emergency heli flights were successfully flown last year. For this we exercise during day and night flights on a continuous basis. Particularly memorable is the rescue and first aid of a paraglider from Slovenia at the beginning of winter near Sarajevo. He had landed in a minefield and was seriously injured. Using another helicopter (also an Alouette 3) the four other paragliders were winched from the mine field out of the life-threatening situation. An invitation to thank the crews by the Slovenian Embassy in Sarajevo followed the rescue.

"Just another mission in Bosnia and Herzegovina we can almost imagine both of them saying simultaneously".

Relics of the cold war “TITO” bunker

Konjic is beautiful town in the Southern part of BiH known for its lovely nature, water springs and flora and fauna endemic species. The Konjic area is one of the richest water resort areas in BiH. Deep canyons carved by river waters over many years provided a great place for river rafting. At the same time these deep canyons were an excellent location where the Yugoslav military saw an opportunity to build various military installation and shelters. When the Warsaw pact and NATO were established (after WWII) Yugoslavia experienced need for peculiar military strategy for its own defense.

One of the most visible examples of Yugoslav military doctrine and requirement is so called “Tito” bunker in Konjic. Construction of this nuclear bunker facility started early 1950es and was completed in 1979. It was constructed to secure and provide safety for the highest political, military and government establishment of Yugoslavia in case of war, where they could continue to run the country and resist to attackers! This facility had communication with all regional military centers.

The Bunker could provide sufficient space, food, medical care; communication means etc for over 350 people for a period of over 6 months. It had all required at that time “state of the art” supply, protection and life support systems. Actually according innovations and technology used for its construction it was way ahead of its time.

This facility could resist a nuclear impact of 20 KT. The deepest part of this bunker lies over 280 meters under the land surface. The Bunker represents one of the most expensive Yugoslav military investments (total 4, 6 billions of USD) and one of the most important military facilities ever built in Yugoslavia after WWII. The total length of this facility is over 202 meters and it has the shape of a “horse shoe”.

We are grateful for the excellent maintenance and hard work of the group of BiH military NCO and soldiers. We can still enjoy and view this facility and get a real impression about the cold war. The Future of this facility is not clear, but ideas suggest toward tourism and art center!

If you have an opportunity to visit this bunker- DO NOT miss it!

Actions from LOT Višegrad

Eleven-year old Filip Josilović from Gornje Seganje near Višegrad has lost around 35 percent of his already damaged eyesight during the last year. This fourth grade pupil of the “Vuk Karadzic” Elementary School suffers from a rare disease called eye dystrophy, or in other words, his optic nerve is damaged. This is something that his parents noticed a long time ago, as soon as he started exploring the world around him, and especially when he started learning first letters and looking at picture-books. His parents, Vladiša and Milanka, have done all they could to have their son’s illness correctly diagnosed. Ever since he was a toddler they have been taking him from one doctor to the other or, as they say, from the Foča Clinical Center to the Military Medical Academy in Belgrade. As of the last year they ran out of money. None of the seven members of the Josilović family are employed and they haven’t been able to continue with diagnostic procedures for Filip at specialist clinics in Belgrade. “I cannot accept the fact that my eldest son, my firstborn, is losing his eyesight so quickly and so drastically, and that we, his parents, are unable to do anything about it. We stay up at night worrying and during the day we secretly watch our child as he struggles to walk in the house, or play with his brothers and friends,” Vladiša says. Filip uses one pair of eyeglasses for reading, another for watching TV or when walking outside. He can read only textbooks if the background under the letters is white, but if it is colored it is a big problem for him. Still, this does not prevent him from being a very good pupil. The biggest problem is that his parents cannot afford to buy new eyeglasses for him anymore, or to pay for a trip to Belgrade and expensive specialist examinations. “Doctors told me that unless a correct diagnosis is established very soon and a treatment, possibly even a complicated surgical procedure, is started, Filip could lose his eyesight completely. If that happens, he will not be able to recognize the difference between day and night anymore. In that case he would be able only to register movement around him, but it would be very difficult for him to get the feel of the place. For our family that would be catastrophic, Josilović says.

Bank Account Number Vladiša has not asked for anyone’s help for treatment of his child thus far. If he had a job, he says, he wouldn’t be complaining now either. He also says that during the construction season he goes to Montenegro and carries out construction works in order to support his family.

“It seems that my Filip can only be helped by God and good people,” Vladiša says.

Visit to Pazarić Mental Institution

In Camp Butmir, a group of EUFOR and NATO members of all ranks have committed themselves to supporting an institution for mentally handicapped persons on a voluntary personal or national basis. The “Pazarić Institute for the Care of Mentally Disabled Children and Youth” has 3 different locations and provides care to around 400 or more residents with ages ranging from 4 – 70 years of age.

Members of the support group try to visit Pazarić at least twice a month. The residents of Pazarić don't have it easy and they are very happy just to receive visits which bring some variety into their otherwise very monotonous daily routine. The institute is short of funds, equipment and staff. Although the staff is doing the best they can, most of the facilities and equipment are not up to western standards.

This is why we in the support group will arrange a fund-

Make sure to note the 23 March 2012 in your calendar and come and help support the Pazarić Institute!

There is also a Facebook group you can visit to see some pictures and videos from our past visits. Type in Pazarić Institute for the Care of Mentally Disabled Children and Youth in the search box on Facebook and you will find the page.

I was born on 20th December 1960 in Grevenmacher, a small town in Eastern Luxembourg. Luxembourg is a small but very nice country having common borders with Germany in the east, France in the south and Belgium in the west. My native language is Luxembourgish (Letzebuergesch). The administrative languages in Luxembourg are French and German. I was married in 1999 and I am father of three children, Pol 11 years old, Tom 9 years old and Anne 7 years old.

I joined Luxembourg Army in 1978 as volunteer. After having accomplished my basic training, I have been gunner and squad driver in an Infantry platoon. Later I have been assigned as Company logistic supplier. In 1980 I applied to become an NCO. Having passed the contest, I studied one year at the infantry school in Arlon (Belgium) and passed my entrance exam in 1981. My first assignments as Sergeant were squad leader in an infantry platoon, Instructor in basic training for new enlisted recruits and squad leader in an ATk Platoon. In 1986, I started as teacher at the military driving school. In 1991, I was assigned to Admin S1 at the military training Center in Diekirch and since 2004 I am NCO in Personnel and Public Relations Office in the HQ of Luxembourg Army in Luxembourg City.

I arrived in Camp Butmir on 28th of November 2011 for a period of 4 month in order to be employed as Regimental Sergeant Major. I have been already here in Sarajevo from June to October 1997 as Admin assistant in HQ ECMM (European Community Monitoring Mission).

In my free time, I am very interested in all kinds of sports, but I only practise in cycling and jogging. I spend a lot of time in making music. I am member of several music bands and choirs.

Joint Military Affairs (JMA)

Joint Military Affairs (JMA) is a multinational Branch within the Capacity Building and Training Division in HQ EUFOR. It is staffed by locally hired civilians, international civilian consultants, Austrian military, Polish military, Spanish military and Turkish Military. JMA staff members come from a variety of backgrounds and Services and all contribute to the “feel” of EUFOR as a truly multi-national, multi-disciplinary member of the EUFOR family.

JMA contains COM EUFOR’s Subject Matter Experts on what were formerly General Framework Agreement for Peace (GFAP) functions such as Arms Control, the control of Ammunition and Weapons Storage Sites, the control on the movement of Weapons and Military Equipment (WME) and a host of other tasks. All of these activities have now been transferred to the BiH authorities and the main task of JMA now is to support the BiH civil authorities and the Armed Forces of BiH both in capacity building and training in order that they can successfully carry out these tasks.

JMA staff members carry out their activities by a combination of monitoring, mentoring and advising the BiH authorities on former GFAP tasks particularly on the topics mentioned above. These functions are not purely limited to the Armed Forces of Bosnia and Herzegovina (AF BiH) but also to other BiH State Level institutions.

These photographs show JMA countermines staff members on a demining site with members of the AF BiH demining battalion, providing guidance and advice.

JMA also provides essential Force Protection and Operational Effectiveness measures to EUFOR by providing Mine Awareness Training and updated information on demining activities in BiH including the provision of maps showing mine contaminated areas. These maps are updated on a regular basis using information received from the BiH Mine Action Centre (BHMACH).

The JMA Mine Information Coordination Centre (MICC) is the organisation tasked with updating mine information and in 2011 produced 6,984 mine information maps. Whilst on the subject of Mine Risk Education (MRE) it should be noted that 11,549 children and adults were provided with MRE via EUFOR sources last year. This area is also the subject of capacity building and the aim is that over the next few years the BiH authorities will assume more responsibility for this task. This will be achieved by EUFOR training more Mine Risk Educators within the AF BiH. However, EUFOR is currently by far the largest provider of Mine Risk Education, with over 70% of all MRE provided to the population of BiH carried out by EUFOR.

The photographs here show JMA staff involved with the Mine Risk Education of local children

The remainder of JMA staff are employed in activities such as the verification of the work carried out by the Internal Inspection Teams of the AF BiH at Ammunition and Weapons Storage Sites, inspection with the BiH Authorities of factories in the Defence Industry sector of the BiH economy, provision of ammunition, military movement control and other expertise to the AF BiH and BiH authorities.
